BRIBERY CHARGE DENIED

T. A. Dean Says That Drake Himself Suggested Money

Asks the Late Senator to Make Public a Conversation Which Occurred in Columbus
Last Winter.

Fremont Oct. 9.—T. A. Dean, who beat Senator Drake for the Democratic nomination for the senate in this district, and who was accused by Senator Drake and Senator Atwell of attempting to influence their votes on the Rose county option bill, yesterday gave out a statement in which he denies the alleged effort at bribery, and challenges Senator Drake to make public a conversation said to have passed between them at a cafe
in Columbus, Mr. Dean said:

Wayne R. Wheeler has evidently taken an innocent circumstance or two and tried to weave it into a skillfully worded statement that would make me appear as a lobbyist and a briber in order to hurt my candidacy for the state senate.

"Senator Drake knows that I have never offered him a cent and never suggested anything of the kind and he will not make such a statement in a court of justice.

"Whatever suggested of this nature ever occurred came from Mr.
Drake and I challenge him to make public a conversation that occurred at Leachman's restaurant in Columbus, where we had gone for lunch upon his invitation, when I was in that city last winter. If he does not tell the truth I have no more to say."

VOTES DRY

Wayne County Joins the Temperance Forces and 12 Saloons Are Put Out of Business.

Wooster, Oct. 9.—Wayne county joined the dry counties in the election held yesterday under the Ro-low law. Complete returns show the following figures: Dry 4454; wet 3623;
dry majority, $26. Twelve saloons, one distillery and one brewery will be put out of business.

Wooster, which was voted dry by 58 last July, voted 13 wet today. Orville, one of the three saloon towns in the county, voted 43 dry. "Bad weather
during the morning and the indifference of voters caused a light vote.

SECOND STRAW VOTE TAKEN

The second installment of the secret straw vote taken by the Cincinnati Enquirer was published Friday.
and was read with interest by hundreds of people in Newark, who are anxious to get a good line on what may be expected from the voters of the state in November. Thursday representatives of the Enquirer canvassed 17 large manufacturing and buildings. The poll showed in connection with the total vote that on the National ticket 50 Democrats would change to Republican and that 269 Republicans would change to Democrats, while on the State ticket 59
Democrats would change to Republicans, and 209 Republicans would change to Democrats. This showing is indicative of the way the vote will be all over the state of Ohio.

TO TAKE VOTE IN NEWARK.

The Cincinnati Enquirer has joined with the New York Herald and papers in Chicago and other cities for the purpose of taking a straw vote.
The Enquirer will feel the public pulse in Ohio, Kentucky and Indiana.
A representative of that paper is in the city and expresses the hope of securing 2000 Newark votes. Blanks may be secured at the Advocate of-free, at Speer's news stand, at Hayes'

cigar store, Teuscher's barber shop, and other places will be selected. The ballot, when marked, will show how the voter cast his ballot last year and in 1901, and how he will vote this year. It is put in a sealed envelope and is opened in the Enquirer office.
No names are given and the ballot is therefore secret. The result will be published in the Enquirer. Only a few days will be given to secure the Newark vote, so those who are interested should vote now.

REGISTRATION SHOWS INCREASE BY BIG MAJORITY

Over That of Four Years Ago — Indicates Rapid Growth of City of Newark.

The second day's registration in Newark resulted in 2828 names being added to the books, which brings the total number registered up to over 5,000, or to be exact, 5106.

For the first two days at the last general registration in 1904, 3820
voters registered, which shows a gain for this year over 1904 of 1226. On the second day four years ago, 1673 names were registered, as against 2828 on Thursday of this week, showing a gain for 1908 of 1155.

The increase in registration is indicative of the rapid and substantial growth of Newark, and is a matter of congratulation to every citizen. The detailed figures follow:

ENGLISH EDITOR, WHO

COMES TO STUDY AMERICA
London, Oct. 9.—Lord Northcliffe, better known as Alfred Harmsworth, controller of the London Times and proprietor of the Daily Mail and some 45 other publications, has sailed for America for a vacation and to study

American journalism at close range.
He has just completed an arduous season's work, chief of which was the reorganization of the Times, which he hopes to turn into a modern newspaper. He has done more toward mod-ernizing the English press than any other man.

PALACE

Of King is What
Watterson Calls
White House

FIRST SPEECH SINCE 1892

Declares Roosevelt is a Sovereign in Everything
Except Name

Member of Court Circle Blundered
When He Blurted Out That Taft Would Hold Job
for Roosevelt.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 9.—Hon.
Henry Watterson presided and was the principal speaker at a Democratic rally in the Masonic theater here last night. As this was Mr. Watterson's first political speech since 1892,
and will probably be his only platform utterance during the present campaign, much interest was manifested. Mr. Watterson said in part:
"I truly rejoice that I have lived
to look upon a reunited Democracy.
I was born in a Democratic camp
during what proved a bad year for Democrats, and I attained my majority just in time to see the party go over the precipice of sectionalism to what seemed its ruin.

"The politicians tell you that there are many issues up for settlement we cannot change our rulers at will in this campaign. I see but one, if —if an organized and defiant minority inside a fortress can withstand the siege of an undisciplined and ill-equipped majority on the outside—how shall talk about trusts and tariffs, about rebates and bank deposits, about money and morals and stocks and bonds profit us?

"I behold now an almost exact reproduction of the evil conditions of fifty years ago. The Republican party grown corrupt and arrogant, is putting forth a tremendous effort to retain the power which it so misused. If it succeeds it will never surrender it short of some dire cataclysm, making its exit the signal for, it may be, a civil war. To end its policies of militarism, favoritism and class distinction have long been tending, preparing a new irrepressible conflict between capital and labor. I pray God that this may never come. But the way to avert it is by occasional changes of party bringing home to our people men their subordination to the people.

"No one who knows what is going on in the national capital, and has been going on for a long time, needs to be told that they are undermining the popular foundations of our Democratic government and converting it into an imperial republic, with nothing wanting of monarchism and titular nobility except the nomenclature.
The White House is already the palace of a king. The president is already a sovereign in everything except name. Why should not a member of the court circle blurt it out that Taft is expected merely to hold down the job for Roosevelt, if since it was thought premature to run Roosevelt for the immediate succession?"

FLEET SAILS TOMORROW.

Manila, Oct. 9.—The American fleet is in readiness to sail for Yokohama tomorrow morning. It was Admiral Sperry's original intention to sail this evening, but he decided on the postponement.

JUDGE TAFT WILL TAKE A REST.

Cincinnati, Oct. 9.—Judge Taft will take a three days' rest before starting out next Monday for the Ohio and West Virginia trip. He is receiving no delegations. After Monday Taft will be on the stump almost continuously until election day.

TROLLEY CARS MEET HEAD-ON

Haverhill, Mas., Oct. 9.—Dashing down hill at full speed, two trolley cars met head-on this morning. One man was killed and one fatally injured. Three others were seriously and more than a score slightly injured.

SCENE OF THE BALKAN DISPUTE---TURKS GUARDING ROADS AND BULGARIAN FETE

Belgrade, Servia, Oct. 9.—War between Servia and Austro-Hungary is so near that King Peter, of Servia, in all probability must either declare it before night or suffer dethronement or, perhaps, assassination at the hands of his infuriated subjects.

GIRL FOUND MURDERED

LOVER TO WHOM SHE WAS EN-GAGED WITH THE DEED.

Body Found With Bullet Hole in the Temple, Lying Alongside of a Public Road.

Wadsworth, Ohio, Oct. 9.—Miss Ora Lee, aged 20, was found murdered beside the road near here early today. Sheriff Hutchinson has arrested Guy Rason, aged 25, to whom the girl was engaged to be married, and is holding him on suspicion. The girl's body had been carefully straightened out after death. In the temple was a bullet hole. The girl left her boarding house last night, intending to go to Kithman. When the body was found a suit case lay beside it.

Razor was taken to the scene of the murder this morning and later to the farm house, where the body of Miss Lee was removed. When arrested Rason had in his pocket a razor to which Miss Lee. Near the spot where the girl's body was found officers found a place where a horse, attached to a buggy, had been harnessed. The horse had only three feet shod, and officers believed that this clue will lead to important developments.

WAR SCARE CAUSES HEAVY TRADING.

Chicago, Oct. 9.—The war scare market in wheat caused a heavy trading on the board of trade today. Millions of bushels changed hands, and at one time jumped one cent per bushel. Later the market quieted.

even the conciliatory influences of all the other great European powers have so far failed to quell them.
So imminent are hostilities that the Austrian troops in Dolma Tuzia are moving to the frontier in anticipation of battle, while the Austrian fleet in the Danube river is under steam, prepared to fight at a moment's notice.

MEETING OF OHIO DEMOCRATIC EDITORS

Columbus, Oct. 9.—About thirty members of the Democratic Editorial association, which was organized a short time ago, were in the city yesterday, in consultation with William L. Finley, chairman of the State Committee, relative to matters pertaining to the campaign.

They were entertained at luncheon at the Great Southern Hotel, at which Judson Harmon, Ollie James of Kentucky, and Senator Carmack of Tennessee, were guests of honor.

WANTS WATERWAY

Theodore P. Shontz Advises Building of the Deep Waterway from Chicago, Oct. 9.—Theodore P.

Shontz, president of the Chicago and Alton railroad, was the principal speaker before the last day's session of the Lakes-to-the-Gulf Deep Waterways association convention. As a railroad man, Shontz advised the building of a deep waterway paralleling the railroad of which he is the head almost a entire distance

CZAR'S FLEET MOBILIZED

England Has Given Up
All Hope of Averting
War

Declaration of Hostilities Against Austria May Be Made Sunday
---England Will Support
Turkey.

Vienna, Oct. 9.—Turkish forts at Constantinople have fired on a vessel in the Bosphorus flying the new Bulgarian flag, according to a message
just received here.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 9.—Fearful that Austria intends to take advantage of the condition in Servia to strike the boldest blow of all, annexation of Servia, the Czar has ordered the mobilization of the Black Sea fleet. It is rumored her that Bulgaria, acting in conjunction with Austria, will seize parts of Macedonia.

London, Oct. 9.—England has given up all hope of averting war in the Balkans and commencement of actual hostilities between Servia and Austria is momentarily expected. The British press today hints that the up-breaking of the present alignment of the Balkans will be the cue for England to annex Egypt, over which she has so long held suzerainty. A dispatch of the British fleet from Malta to the island of Lemnos today means nothing less than that England will be found lined-up with Turkey in the expected clash.

Belgrade, Oct. 9.—All army reserves were today ordered to join the colors Sunday and the declaration for war and King Peter seems powerless to restrain his people. The Crown Prince of Servia announces that he will lead the army into Bosnia and the Prince of Montenegro sends word that he will join in war on Austria.

London, Oct. 9.—England gave her first tangible evidence today of supporting Turkey by ordering the battleships, Glory and Prince of Wales, and the cruisers, Diana and Lanceter, to proceed at once from Malta to the island of Lemnos, which is in Cretean archipelago and belongs to Turkey. England is acting on the representation of Turkey that only the presence of the English fleet can prevent the spoliation of the empire.

HON. B. F. McDONALD

Has Been Engaged By State Committee To Deliver Campaign Addresses Over State.

Hon. B. F. McDonald was called up by long distance phone Thursday by Hamilton Deweese, of the Democratic State Committee, who has charge of all the speakers during the campaign, and arrangements were made whereby Mr. McDonald will deliver an address on the issues of the campaign at Newcomerstown next Tuesday night. He will also give his services during the last week of the campaign speaking in Wayne and Tuscarawas counties.

W. J. BRYAN'S ITINERARY.

Chicago, Oct. 9.—W. J. Bryan is today campaigning through Illinois. He will invade Missouri tomorrow. He will speak in New York City Oct. 20.

WILL ANNOUNCE RULING TUESDAY

Chicago, Oct. 9.—On Tuesday next the United States circuit court of appeals is expected to hand down its ruling on the petition of the government for a rehearing before that court of the $29,000,000 Standard Oil case.

FINE HORSES RAISED ON THE BRYN DU FARM

Granville Council Holds Important Meeting—Notes of Interest to Denison Students.

Granville, Oct. 9.—Mr. T. S. Jones, one of Granville's most prominent citizens and who is owner of the Bryn Du Farm, the most modern and up-to-date farms in Central Ohio is giving a name for the excellence of their unrivaled horses. At the recent Granville county fair he entered his horses "Colonel" and "Mack." They won trophies as tandem team and also won first as a carriage team. "Mack" also won first in saddle horse and "Colonel" second.

At the Columbus County Club Horse Show, one of the best shows of the kind in Ohio, held on Sunday, October 3, Mr. Jones also had his horses on exhibition. "Colonel" ridden by Trafford Talmadge, won first in the walk, trot and canter class. The prize for which was a silver cup. This cup had to be won twice in a day to become the property of the winner. It was formerly won by Harold Talmadge and L. Ewing Jones, both of Columbus. "Mack" won first in the trotting saddle class. He was ridden by Mr. Frank Talmadge. The prize in this class was also a silver cup that had to be won twice in order to become the property of the winner. It was formerly won by Mr. Vercoe and Mrs. Kinswelder. "Colonel" won first in the combination class, both riding and driving. The silver cup in this class is for permanent possession. The classes in this show were the largest they had ever had and this was the first time one man has carried away three cups from this show.

At a meeting of the village council, Laverne R. Davis presented the Granville National Gas company in its case against the village of Granville, stating that the case would come up before the circuit court on October 15. He asked that a committee be appointed to assist in the case. The committee consists of Messrs. Ahlbrook, Lee and Powell. A resolution was adopted providing for the building of a sidewalk on the east side of Lot 42. Several ordinances were placed on their first and second readings and an ordinance regulating the extension of private connections for the use of the public water supply was passed.

In the death of Mrs. Henry Chisholm when recently occurred at her home in Cleveland Denison University has lost a friend of many years' standing. As a memorial to her husband Mr. Chisholm and her children endowed the chair of physics in Denison University and thus made possible the effective work in that department done under the direction of Professor Volk and later, Professor Chamberlain.

Mr. Charles Lewis, donor of the popular Lewis Prize Contest, and for the past 20 years one of Denison's most highly esteemed trustees, has recently been made second vice president of the Toledo and Ohio Central and the Kanawha and Michigan railroads, comprising what is known as the Ohio Central Lines.

At the last meeting of the Shepardson Glee club Miss Blonda Watt was re-elected as president and Miss Emily Maloney was chosen to serve as business manager. Miss Grace Dubois will act as secretary. The club will hold meetings on Tuesday evening throughout the year.

The Conservatory Orchestra under the direction of Mr. Hidden began practice last night and from now on rehearsals will be held on each Thursday evening at 6:30 o'clock. A concert will be given shortly before Christmas and the annual commencement concert when the orchestra will assist the Conservatory chorus in a performance.

Prof. Carney has recently received from G. K. Gilbert a consignment of 26 volumes and 202 separate bulletins leaflets etc. for the geological library. Mr. Gilbert is the gentleman who recently bestowed the library up on the university.

At a recent meeting of the Senior class of the university the following committee was named to take charge of the Washington banquet which is the most important social function connected with the college: Kenneth Jewett, Harry Pine, Willard Willis, George Hershberger, Addie Tudor, Alva Edwards, Blonda Watt, Irene Chambers, Ruth Carlin, Francis Patrick and P. T. Alexander.

On next Tuesday afternoon at four o'clock the sale of tickets for the lecture course will take place in the Granville opera house. At that time numbers will be drawn for places in line, and each person will be given the privilege of buying six tickets.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Leatherman of Hamilton, O., who have been visiting here for the past two weeks, returned home Wednesday, having had a very pleasant visit.

Tuesday the Logan company made Location No. 1 on the Wm. Lloyd farm, one-half mile southwest of Granville. The derrick from the Dunaway farm will be moved to this location.

One of the most enjoyable events of the past week was the regular meeting of the Fortnightly club which was held at the home of Miss Gertrude Carpenter. There was a goodly representation of the members of the club, and a most enjoyable evening was spent by those who were present. The members responded to roll call with favorite quotations. Mrs. Gilpatrick read a most interesting paper on "Dutch Possessions," which was listened to with marked attention. Several short talks were given on the "Impressions of Holland." Mrs. Robinson told about the "Danes," Mrs. Pond, "Windmills," and Miss Hoover, "Polders." Miss Amelia Owens read a most interesting paper on the "Characteristics and Customs of the Dutch." The guests of the evening were Mrs. Wood, Mrs. Hines, Miss Daisy Howe, Miss Della Copp, Mrs. Morton, Mrs. John Powell, Miss Finley, Mrs. T. J. Wright, Miss Addie McClain and Mrs. Butcher. The next meeting of the club will be held with Miss Annabel Owen and Mrs. Nichols, on Saturday, Oct. 17.

Frank, the three-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Freeman, who died at the home on Sunrise street, was buried in the Welsh Hills cemetery on Thursday. The funeral services were held at the home at 10 o'clock Thursday morning.

Mr. B. I. Jones is at the Carroll county fair this week in the capacity of judge in the horse department. The fair is being held at Carrollton. Mr. Jones has been engaged as judge of horses at the State fair and county fairs throughout the state for the past twenty years, and is probably one of the best known horsemen in the state.

Miss Fannie Edwards, of Elvira, O., who has been here the past week, visiting relatives and friends, returned home Thursday night.

Prof. W. H. Johnson left Thursday for Cincinnati, where he will attend the committee meeting on Co-Operation Between Colleges in the Ohio College Association.

J. Enoch Shepardson is visiting in the village for a short time. He is connected with the Westinghouse Co. in Pittsburgh.

HUGHES ON SPIRIT OF PLAY.

Governor Praises Playground System and Its Work in Cities.

Governor Charles Evans Hughes of New York was the principal speaker at a recent session of the second annual congress of the Playground Association of America, which has been holding forth at the American Museum of Natural History, in New York city. He said the best way to train a boy to do right is not to lecture him into tears about his wrongdoing, but to show him the delight of a noble and happy boyhood.

"The successful worker must have the spirit of play in his heart," said Governor Hughes, "and the successful man is only a boy with a man's experience. He must have the zest, the devotion, the spirit of comradeship, the capacity of self forgetfulness, added to the wholesome outlook of the life of the boy, if he is to do a man's work in the world. How are we in our great congested population to make possible the spirit of play, the opportunities which are essential to the development of the normal manhood? I cannot aid you by expressing a suggestion, but I can bid you godspeed from the bottom of my heart."

"We are fighting with intelligence, and we hope, wisely, the great white plague. But the dread disease of tuberculosis must be successfully fought by developing stamina, physical strength, plenitude in all the physical activities. We must nourish that strength in childhood. We do not want simply hospitals and pavilions and notices giving instructions to those who are infirm. We want to save the health of the country so that we may develop a strong, well nurtured community."

"If we are thinking of nothing else but the preservation of life and the proper function of government in protecting against the community exposure of the people to infection and the inroads of disease, we would make it one of our first objects to secure adequate playgrounds for children in the free air and give them opportunities of rescuing themselves from their overcrowded abodes."

"We want playgrounds to conserve the morals of the people. There may be some who look upon human nature as absolutely debased and yet recall it as exhibiting here a very extraordinary illustration of spasmodic virtue, virtue in spite of tendency. My opinion is that the average boy and girl are good. I believe that every man and woman would rather do right than wrong."

"And knowing what makes for a reduction of unnecessary temptation, it makes it easier to have wholesome living that nourishes normal youth with a fair chance for gratifying normal appetite. That is a safeguard of the country and of the institutions of our government."

"We want playgrounds in order that we may develop the sentiment of honor. In the playground the boy learns without any suggestion of rebellion against instruction and precept and preaching. He learns it because he does not want anybody else to cheat him, and he is down on the boy that does not play fair. Thereby he maintains a standard which we must establish in the community and particularly in our great cities."

Governor Hughes said he did not believe in making boys compete in sports that necessitated training which they lacked merely to encourage play. Routine and schedules and a training which smacked of a playground congress should be banished, he said, and the playgrounds should be for boys and girls who just want to play.

GOOD NEWS OF A GREAT THING

That Has Become the Talk of Thousands.

There is a death at the end of every life, but as we travel on toward the grave we hope to be blessed with good health, and when we have a friend who has suffered for years with some painful malady, it is good news indeed, when we are told of that friend's complete recovery and when we hear of the remedy that made the cure we are bound to have confidence in it. That is why Root Juice is so well spoken of over the country.

Mr. Sam Anderson, a well known farmer living near Gas City, Ind., said: "I tell you, Root Juice is a great medicine. I suffered for years with rheumatism and stiff joints and when I awoke in the mornings I could hardly raise myself from the bed. My feet and hands were sore, stiff and painful, more especially during rainy weather. I had a great deal of trouble with my back. Root Juice cured one of my neighbors of a bad stomach trouble, so I thought I would give it a trial. Although my trouble was entirely different, I purchased a bottle of Root Juice and a 25c. bottle of 'Eze It' Pain Oil. I rubbed my back and joints well with the oil and took Root Juice precisely as directed. I felt so much better after the first week that I bought six more bottles of the Juice, and also some of the liniment. In a few weeks every symptom of my trouble was gone. I now feel that the cure is permanent and am advising all my sick friends to try Root Juice."

Root Juice has proved its wonderful merit to hundreds of local people. For sale by the City Drug Store, 51 South Main.

MEN'S $3.00 SHOES

The most convincing argument about this line is the shoes themselves. We've never had in our years of experience as many styles, nor so good a selection. The shapes range from narrow toes to the full toe of the comfort lasts in all leathers, button, lace or blucher effects. All are Goodyear welted soles that can't be touched for real, genuine values.

Newark Man on Program.

At the meeting of the Ohio State Horticultural society, to be held in Tiffin, Ohio, Friday, Oct. 16, Mr. F. H. Ballou, of this city, will deliver an address in "Potato Seed Selection and Improvement." This session is known as the Special Potato Field Meeting.

New Arrival.

D. E. Camp, of the firm of O'Connor & Camp, tonsorial artists on North Fourth street, is receiving congratulations of his friends over the arrival of a 12-pound boy, which came to his home, 328 Stanbury street, Thursday evening. The little stranger and its mother are getting along nicely and the proud father is doing the honors by passing around imported perfectos.

Newark Lodge Meets.

Newark Lodge, No. 97, F. and A. M., will hold a special meeting this evening for work in the E. A. degree.

Mrs. Carl Still Improving.

Mrs. Lewis P. Carl continues to improve from the effects of the serious burns she sustained a few weeks ago. She is on the road to recovery, and, although not yet strong enough to sit up, takes plenty of nourishment, and is gradually recovering from her dangerous experience.

Get Your Tickets Now.

From present indications, few, if any, single number tickets will be put on sale for the High school lecture course. If you want to hear Schilke's Hungarian Orchestra. Thanksgiving Night, Gov. John A. Johnson Dec. 22, Mrs. Maud Ballington Booth, or any other number, provide for it now. It will cost you no more now for the season ticket of six months than it will for three, provided single tickets are available later.

Library Books Needed.

Among the visitors to the new public library are many children. They eagerly seize the books offered them and the little folks are showing a keen interest in the new institution. What the library needs is more books and more money. Donations of cash or contributions of books will be gratefully accepted. Look over your own library and select a few books which you will be willing to donate. The cause is worthy.

Teachers' Annual Convention.

The annual convention of the Central Ohio Teachers' association will be held in Detroit this year, the convention coming in December. Every other year the convention is held in some city outside of the state, to give the teachers opportunity of studying the methods in vogue in other cities. A large number of Licking county teachers will probably attend the convention this year, which will last from Thursday until Saturday.

Election Nearly Here.

Contributions of one dollar, no more or no less, for the Democratic National campaign fund may be left at this office. Receipts in the form of campaign buttons reading: "I gave my dollar. Did you?" are given. Up to last night sixty persons sent dollars to The Advocate. Part of this money has been sent to the National committee and the rest will go forward within a few days. Those who desire to contribute a dollar to the fund are requested to act promptly, as the time is short. Election day comes on Nov. 3.

First Visit in Thirty Years.

Having not seen Newark, his home town, for 30 years, Mr. Frank T. Van Atta, of San Francisco, Cal., accompanied by his wife, arrived in this city Wednesday night to pay a visit to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Van Atta, 245 Eddy street, Woodside. Mr. Van Atta was astounded at the growth of Newark and the many remarkable changes that have taken place in over a quarter of a century that he has been absent. About 14 years ago his parents paid him a visit in his home city of the Golden Gate, but he has not seen either of them since that time.

No Improvement.

The condition of Deacon William T. Evans, who has been ill at his home, 636 North Fourth street, for the past several days, shows no improvement.

Moved to City.

J. P. Lamb, having recently sold his country place, "Maple Lane," to Prof. J. H. Walcott of Columbus, has removed with his family to this city, where they will reside permanently.

Why Licking County Should Go Dry.

Rev. Thomas H. Warner will speak on the above topic at the First Congregational church Sunday night at 7 o'clock. The church is located on Fourth street, between Locust and High. Everyone interested is cordially invited.

Charles Allen Some Better.

Charles Allen, the popular Crane-Bliss company hardware clerk and doorman at the Auditorium theatre, who has been very ill at his home, 84 High street, suffering from blood poisoning as a result of a pin scratch, is said to be resting comfortably and showing signs of improvement.

G. A. R. Box Social.

The G. A. R. will have a box social next Tuesday evening, Oct. 13, at the home of Wm. Holler, 121 Vernon road, two miles north of the city. Each lady will please bring a box, with supper for two. The proceeds are for the G. A. R. Encampment Fund. Come and have a good time with the old boys.

Prison Almost Empty.

The population of the city prison reached the low water mark Thursday when for the first time in several months but one man was a prisoner in the "little red brick." At no time during the summer has the prison been crowded, but during the winter the population is usually large, for "bo" sleepers crowd into the office of the turnkey every night to get a place to sleep. The one prisoner is serving a "drunk sentence."

Roumanian Dance Tonight.

The Roumanian beneficial society, Dacia Traina, will give a benefit ball and picnic at the armory, on East Main street, tonight. The great Roumanian dance artist, Tienghea, who is the national dancer, will be present and give a number of beautiful dances. There will be good music, and an excellent program will be carried out. Everybody is invited, and Americans will be made welcome and are assured a good time. Admission, 50 cents; ladies, 15 cents. The program will start at 7 o'clock.

Erecting New Houses.

Work has just been commenced on the construction of three modernly equipped seven-room houses for the Wehrle Realty company, on Seventh street, just off Church. The work is being done by the company's private contractor, A. J. Berry, according to plans recently completed by Architects Howell and Thomas. The new structures will be modern in every detail, two stories and of frame. They will be completed some time after the first of the year. It is understood that these may be followed by the construction of others on the Church street front of the Wehrle property, but this has not been definitely decided.

Wished to Buy Husband Present.

A woman from the country entered a prominent undertaking establishment Friday morning, and, approaching the undertaker, asked him to purchase a glass of chestnuts. She said that it was her husband's birthday and she would like to buy him a little present. The kind hearted undertaker complied with her request. Upon receiving the five cents in payment for the chestnuts the woman hurried from the place, although there were several men in the room who would have purchased all the chestnuts she had, had she but waited a moment. The presumption is that she was so anxious to buy her husband a present that she could not wait.

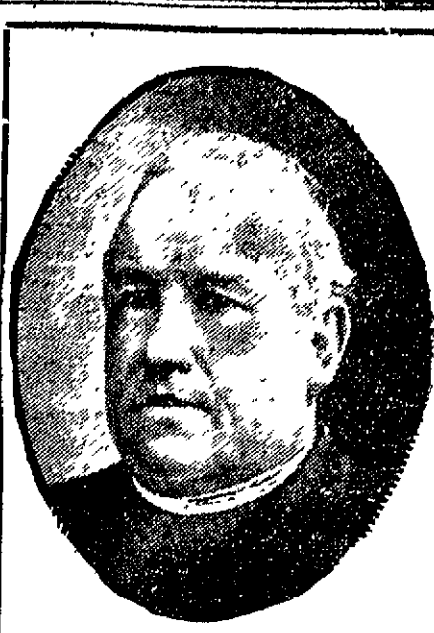

How to Sweeten Strong Butter.

Housekeepers often find that butter bought for cooking is quite strong. The Germans have a method of sweetening it which is efficacious. It is as follows:

Put ten pounds of butter into a porcelain kettle and boil steadily over a good but slow fire until the sediment in the pan is of a pale amber color. This will be in about five hours. Great care must be used for fear of scorching. Strain the butter while hot into clean, small jars, not squeezing the cloth. When cold cover with oiled paper and keep in a cool place from the air. This process imparts to the worst kind of butter a palatable, nutty flavor. It is better than ever for gingerbread or for any kind of plain cake.

A rich bachelor sometimes develops into a poor husband.

Many a man sticks to the right only to find that he is left.

NAPHTHA SOAP

Rub-a-dub-dub!

RUB-a-DUB-dub!

That is what wears out your clothes—the eternal rubbing up and down the washboard.

Why don't you stop it? It isn't necessary.

The right way to wash clothes—the easy way—the quick way—the safe way—the Modern way is with P. & G. Naphtha Soap and cold (or lukewarm) water.

If you adopt this way, you will have precious little use for a wash-board.

The naphtha in P. & G. Naphtha Soap loosens the dirt. The soap cleans.

Boiling the clothes, too, is unnecessary. Use P. & G. Naphtha Soap and get rid of these twin evils of wash day. There is no need for either.

P. & G. Naphtha Soap is for sale in almost every grocery in this city.

The price is 5 cents a cake.

TREATMENT OF CROUP.

How to Relieve Congestion Quickly and Avoid Choking.

It is usually at night that croup develops and may be caused by some exposure or reason which the mother cannot fathom. The symptoms usually are unmistakable, being a hard, dry cough and the utmost difficulty in breathing, causing the little sufferer to show extreme pain. This state yields almost immediately to hot applications and simple medicines and so may be treated without a physician unless the croup seems to be too severe. In that case a doctor should be sent for at once.

Croup is a gathering of mucus, the result of a cold, and a dose of castor oil should be given as soon as it can be swallowed, says the Washington Star. If there has been no action on the liver it is well to give a dose of warm, soupy water, but both of these may be delayed until heat is applied.

For this treatment first wring some flannels in water as hot as the baby's skin can stand without burning and put them over the throat, constantly changing, so that the heat may not grow less. The baby should be left in the bed and warmly covered, and a vapor inhalation should be fixed and ready for use at the earliest moment.

If a child shows a disposition to croup—and some babies have it for years—it is well to keep a croup kettle in the house, for the steam inhalation is so much easier given with it. Lacking that, however, a very fair substitute may be made by putting a large towel or sheet over the top of the bed to form a tent or covering over the head and directing into this the nose of the kettle of boiling water. This kettle should be on a gas or alcohol stove by the bed, that the steam may be kept up, and, of course, one must be careful it does not overturn. Another thing to guard against is the infant being burned by the steam. The latter will do this if it strikes him directly, but not if it goes by him, at the same time filling the tent. Any effort he may make to get away from this steam breathing, to which in pain and the strangeness of it he may object, must be prevented, for the steam will soften the mucus quicker than anything else.

Should this not relieve the child quickly a few drops of sirup of ipecac may be given every fifteen minutes until the baby vomits, and no time should be lost in getting a physician. Until he arrives, however, the mother's effort should be to relieve the congestion and prevent choking.

An old fashioned application for croup is goose oil, used because of its penetrating quality. At the beginning of an attack this is rubbed quickly and thoroughly into the throat and chest, and then heat is applied to drive it in. A hot water bag will serve for this purpose, putting a flannel between it and the skin.

Croup, except in extreme cases, is not a thing to cause anxiety if one works quickly and has plenty of hot things at hand.

How to Use Green Peppers.

In the last few years peppers have been growing in favor as a vegetable and as a salad. For the latter it is excellent chopped up to give a flavoring to tomatoes and mixed in with fresh cabbage served with French dressing. For more elaborate effects use the green peppers whole, stuffed with chopped sweetbreads, and serve on hearts of lettuce. Wash and cut off the tops of the peppers, carefully remove the seeds and set on the ice to chill. Boil the sweetbreads and season them when still hot with salt, pepper and plenty of butter. If a small piece of onion is put in the water in which they are boiled the flat taste to which many persons object in using sweetbreads as salad is removed. When cold cut in dice about a half inch square and mix thoroughly with a highly seasoned mayonnaise. Fill the peppers with the sweetbreads and put a teaspoonful of mayonnaise on top of each one.

CURE FOR ECZEMA

DISCOVERED.
Dr. E. Currier Tells How It Can Be Used By the Patients Themselves.

(From Chicago Examiner.)
"Eczema, tetter, ringworm and other skin diseases are spreading," says Dr. J. E. Currier in the Doctor's Guide, writing about a new and wonderfully successful cure for skin affections.

"I apply plain pure citrox, dissolved in hot water, twice a day. You who know how stubborn tetter, ringworm and eczema can be, will be amazed to see soon this stops the itching, dries up the eruption and causes a new healthy skin. I now tell my patients to get a package of pure citrox at the drug store and dissolve a teaspoonful in two tablespoonfuls of hot water, as this solution must be made fresh each time and used warm."

"I am having better success than ever before. A case of tetter on the hand that had run six months, cured in a week, and a young woman whose back was a mass of pustules was cured in two weeks. I could cite many others. Be careful to get the pure drug put up in small, sealed packages, as the common kind sold in bulk is not fit for medicinal use."

It will interest women to learn that this well-known drug's value for skin disease was discovered accidentally by the doctor's wife.

"PANHANDLE PETE"

D. S. Ward, in advance of "Panhandle Pete," was in the city Wednesday and Thursday, making preparations for the appearance of his company here Oct. 15, in this funny effort of George McManus, of the New York World. Mr. Ward was at the Auditorium Wednesday evening in company with Mr. J. H. Smith, traveling passenger agent of this district of the Panhandle railroad. Mr. Ward was introduced to a local man, who, seeing him with Mr. Smith and hearing the mention of the "Panhandle," naturally took him for a railroad man also. The mistake was wholly apparent when the local man asked "if freight traffic was any heavier on the road east of Pittsburgh, and later put in with a remark about prospects for holiday travel on the Panhandle."

Mr. Ward hastily explained that he was a showman, not a railroad official.

OBITUARY

MRS. RUSSELL KYLE.

As the evening sun was sinking on the 29th of September, 1908, a spirit winged its flight, to answer the call. It is enough, come and be with me. While it seems hard to give up those we love, but in the spirit which prompted our Lord to say, in his last moments, "Not My will but Thine be done," we must humbly submit.

Viola Margaret Ford was born Feb. 2, 1843, and departed this life Sept. 29, 1908, aged 65 years, 7 months and 27 days. She was united in marriage to Russell Kyle Sept. 22, 1874. She leaves, besides her husband, one sister, Mrs. Charles Vada; two brothers, R. P. and F. B. Ford, all of Newark.

We miss her safe counsel and Godly example, but her Lord said, "It is enough; come up hither. Enter thou into the joys of thy Lord." While our tears will flow, we mourn not as those who have no hope. For Aunt Lottie was a dear, good woman, and to know her was to love her. She united with the church at an early age, and lived a true consistent member till death. In her late sickness all was done that could be done by loving hands to make her comfortable, and, if possible, to restore her to health, but it without avail. Her gentle spirit winged its way into the immortal beyond. She had braved the storms and endured the trials of life for more than man's allotted time, has met the last enemy, and has gone to await the resurrection morn. While we mourn, we believe she is basking in the sunlight of God.

MRS. DAVID WILLIAMS.

We do not receive by Mrs. Elizabeth Williams, of Hux street, Wednesday morning, of the death of her daughter-in-law, Mrs. David Williams, which occurred at her home in Brownsville, Pa. Wednesday morning, resulting from an operation for appendicitis.

Mrs. Williams has visited in the city a number of times, and has a large circle of friends who will be grieved to hear of her death.

Mrs. David Williams left to attend the funeral.

MRS. MARY VANALLEN.

Mary Alice Vanallen, aged 57, the wife of Turner Vanallen of Hanover, died at her home Wednesday after a brief illness. The funeral service was held at the Smith chapel, near Hanover, Thursday at 2 p. m.

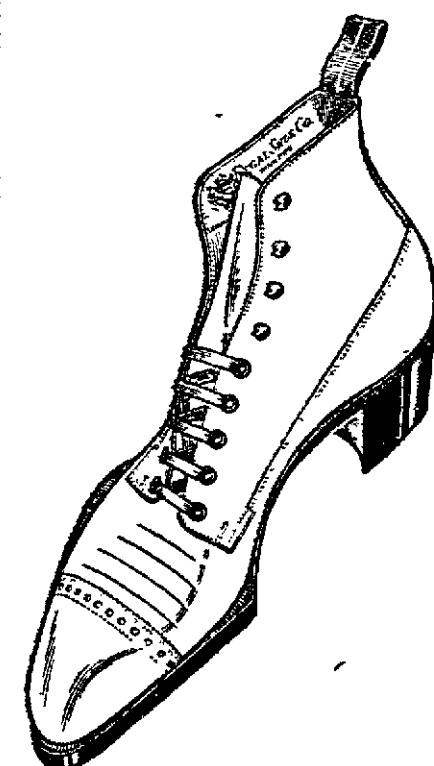

Before her husband, the deceased leaves six children, all living at home.

GOOD GAME SUNDAY

To decide the championship of the American League of the city the Pattersons and the Old Homestead team will play at Wehrle Park Sunday afternoon. The game will be called at 2:30 o'clock. The Patterson team has made a great record this season, having lost but two out of thirty-five games they have played. With good weather the contest between these two teams should draw a large crowd, who would be assured of a ball game in every sense of the word.

CHICAGO CUBS WIN PENNANT

GREATEST BASEBALL FIGHT IN HISTORY WON BY WESTERN TEAM.

Mammoth Crowd Swamps the Polo Grounds in Effort to See Deciding Game in Race.

It's all over and the greatest fight in the history of baseball has been ended, with the Chicago Cubs the victors over the New York Giants by the score of 4 to 2. The game which was played to break the tie between the two clubs, was played under ideal conditions and before one of the largest crowds ever assembled in the Polo Grounds.

The Cubs arrived from the West on the Twentieth Century flier and when they went home they took with them the thing that the New Yorks most desired and most prized, the pennant of the National league. There was no chance for an argument—everything was fair and square. The Giants were defeated in a hard fought, cleanly-played game and McGraw didn't have a word of complaint to offer to the men who had battled so hard all season for the coveted bunting.

New York got one man across the rubber in the first with Pfister twirling, and he was immediately derided and Brown substituted. He allowed four hits in four and one-third innings. Mathewson worked for seven innings and was then pulled and Wiltse put in the box. The hard strain he worked under in keeping the Giants in the running for several weeks told on his masterful work, and his arm was not as deadly as it has been.

The third inning was the fatal one for "Matty," and the Cubs pounded four runs across the plate, to the disgust of the New York fans. The runs made in this inning won the game, though, and also took with it the pennant to the Windy City for the second time.

DETROIT GETS OPENING GAME

Start of World's Series Will Be Made
Saturday at the Tigers' Home.

Cincinnati, Oct. 9.—Beginning at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of Saturday, Oct. 10, the baseball teams of Chicago and Detroit, which have just won the closest recorded contest for the championship of the National and American leagues, will meet at Detroit to enter upon a six-day series of games for the baseball championship of the world.

But one game will be played at Detroit before the scene shifts, the Sunday and Monday contests being scheduled for Chicago, while the Tuesday and Wednesday games are to be played at Detroit, and the sixth game, if one is necessary, will then be transferred to Chicago.

The national baseball commission will be in charge, but the immediate control of the games is given to two umpires from each league. For the National league, Umpires O'Day and Klein were designated by President Pulliam, while President Johnson, of the American league, named Sheridan and Connolly to represent his organization.

There's nothing so good for a sore throat as Dr. Thomas' Eucalypti Cure. It is in a few hours. Relieves any pain in any part.

Fred Merkle, For a Short Time Member of the Mobsters, Saddest Man
in New York.

Fred Merkle is said to be the saddest man in Greater New York today. Merkle, who in June, two years ago, was a member of the local team and who was released at Youngstown after having played three games, because it was thought he was not fast enough for the Newark team, was the substitute first baseman of the Giants whose failure to run from first to second base cost New York a pennant and his team mates $50,000. Just put yourself in his place last night. Imagine his feelings and also try to imagine what Manager "Muggsy" McGraw and certain other Giants said to him. It is likely that Merkle will be a giant next season? New York paid $50,000 for him.

SYNOPSIS PRECEDING CHAPTERS

Chapter I—In the studio of Karl Mailler, a young painter, Olga Hoffman, for six years the wife of Banker Herman Hoffman, feels stirring again her girlish love for Karl. At her husband's request, Karl is to paint her portrait. Suddenly rising from an armchair, a mysterious, repellent, yet fascinating stranger appears before Olga. He seems to her the incarnation of evil, and she flees.

Chapter II—Karl seems to have outgrown his boyish passion for Olga. After the sitting for the portrait, on the same evening, Karl is to meet at Olga's reception a young girl, Elsa, whom Olga has in mind as a bride for the young painter.

Chapter III—Karl is oppressed by the feeling that an unseen presence occupies his armchair. His model, Mimi, to whom he has made love lightly and who loves him, reproaches him for neglecting her in view of his approaching engagement.

Chapter IV—Left in the studio with Karl for the sitting, Olga tells the artist that she has fought for six years against going there. She is overwhelmed with a sense of terror.

CHAPTER V.

LEFT to themselves in the big studio, facing each other, Karl and Olga were silent. There was a look in Karl's eyes that Olga had never seen before. There was a tumult in her heart that she had never before felt. It was Karl who first recovered himself and tried to break the silence, trying to speak lightly.

"Don't be nervous," he said reassuringly. "This is the reception room of my studio. Every woman I paint comes here."

"And do you paint every woman who comes here?" Olga asked slowly.

"No," Karl replied shortly.

There was another awkward pause. Olga could not tell why she had asked that question any more than Karl could have told why he had asked Herman if he was not afraid to leave them alone. It was some unsuspected jealousy that prompted it.

"Did you understand my husband?" Olga asked.

"Yes, I think I did."

"He said 'I trust you.' Why should he say that? Why should it not be a matter of course?"

"You don't think he is really jealous?"

Olga shook her head.

"I don't know," she said. "During the six years we have been together and you have been our friend he has often pretended to be jealous. This time there was something in his voice that made me believe it was more than pretense. It is the first time he has ever left us alone."

They were standing, Karl near the door, where he had bidden Herman farewell. Olga was on the opposite side of the apartment. In the alcove in one corner an open fire burned brightly, casting a red glow over the big, comfortable armchair drawn up before it, with its high, pulpit shaped back toward them. Karl walked over to Olga and said with quiet earnestness:

"We have tried to avoid it, Olga, tried for six years. Now that the situation is forced upon us, why not be honest? Let us talk about it frankly."

"I think it was sweet not to discuss it for six long years," Olga said, smiling at him. "A clean conscience is like a warm cloak, Karl. It infolds us and makes us feel so comfortable." She tried to make her mood seem light, but Karl would not fall in with it.

"Last night when it was suggested that I should paint your portrait you gave me a look I had never seen before," he persisted. "I wonder why."

"I don't know," Olga answered, her fear returning. "Don't let us talk about it. I don't want to."

"You must not be afraid of me, Olga. If I were any one else you might be frightened. I am fond of you, yes, but respectfully. I do not see what harm can be done by talking everything over quietly. It seems so long ago—seven years—since they told me that Herman was to be your husband. It was on the anniversary of the day—"

"Oh, Karl!" she protested, holding out her hands to silence him.

"The day we kissed each other," he went on, speaking so quietly that it seemed almost a whisper. "We were almost children then. I was a poor little clerk who gave drawing lessons to Herman and his sisters. You were a little waitress, fed cake and tea at the milliner's table. There we met, a boy and a beggar girl, thrown together in a palace. We looked at each other, and I think we understood."

Olga covered her burning face with her hands, and Karl went on:

"We kissed each other quite innocently just one kiss, the memory of which has almost faded."

"Yes, Karl, faded," Olga cried eagerly. "We have grown up sensibly, and we never mentioned it."

Karl seemed not to hear her interruption. He went on:

"You became Herman's wife and went to live in a palace. I found you there when I came back from Paris, still fond of you, but determined never to see you so, and when I met you again I, too, was somewhat changed. Still, when our eyes met, Olga, it was with the same look of the two poor, longing little beggars of the years ago. But we did not kiss again."

"Why not?" Olga breathed.

"Your husband and I are the best of friends," Karl said. "Though we have met hundreds of times, you and I, we have not mentioned it."

Olga turned to him gratefully and held out her hand to clasp his.

"You are a good, true friend, Karl."

"Are you satisfied now?" Karl asked her, smiling. "You are not afraid of me, are you?"

"No, but there was something in my husband's voice that frightened me," Olga answered. "He knows what we were to each other, and when he was leaving us here alone I think it made him feel uncomfortable. We aren't in love any more, are we, Karl?"

"No, of course not."

"And it is sweet to think that we have not entirely forgotten old times, isn't it?"

"Yes," he answered absently.

"And of course if we loved each other still you would not marry, would you, Karl?"

"Of course not," he said shortly.

"Now you will get married and you will be very, very happy. And I, too, shall be happy, because I want you to marry, and I myself have chosen a sweet, clever girl for you."

"Exactly," Karl acquiesced dryly.

"And now let us think no more of it," Olga cried, her mood changing to one of gaiety.

She ran over to the door and turned and faced Karl, knocking loudly on the panel.

"Now for work. We have done nothing," she said. "Monsieur, I have come to have my portrait painted."

"Come in, madame," Karl said, bowing gravely and entering into her play. "Good morning."

"I have come to have my portrait painted," Olga said again.

"Karl forgot the playing and exclaimed seriously:

"Ah, last night I made a memory sketch of you after I got home. I have made many, very many, but now I see you differently."

"Why?" Olga asked, startled again by his vehemence.

"Yesterday I saw the lines of your figure; today I see your soul," he said. "Yesterday you were a model; today you are an inspiration."

"Please, Karl, please, don't. We agreed to end everything," she pleaded. "It is hard to end everything so suddenly."

"Karl, my good friend, I did wrong in coming here," Olga said. "Now that I did come, let us work. Take your colors and brush. We must get through with it as soon as possible."

"You are right, Olga; as soon as possible."

"What shall I do first?" she asked.

"Take off your hat and coat, please," Karl stepped toward her with outstretched hands as if to help her. She drew back, with a little gesture of apprehension.

"You mustn't touch me," she said. As she brushed him Karl caught a whiff of fragrance from her hair that was intoxicating.

"Do you use perfume on your hair?" he asked, quite innocently.

"Certainly not," she laughed.

"Oh, then, it is the natural perfume of your hair! Pardon me; I stood too close to you."

Olga removed her hat and cloak. She looked up and saw that Karl was regarding her intently.

"You seem to be studying my features," she said.

"I know them by heart, each one," he answered. "I am thinking of a pose. You know your husband wished a hair length in evening gown."

"Yes, I should have preferred a full length in street costume."

"I agree with Herman. You must be quick. It is getting dark."

"What shall I do?"

"Your waist. You must take it off. You will find some shawls there from which to select one for your shoulders. I will go into the studio."

"Oh, Karl!"

"Don't mind. I shall close the door. Oh, it is snowing terribly!" he added as he moved toward the big studio.

"Snowing! Oh, Karl, can't we postpone this? I don't feel well today. Tomorrow I could come and bring my maid."

"Certainly not. Your husband would surely want to know why we did not work today. Now I will leave you."

He left the room, closing the studio doors behind him. Olga looked apprehensively about her. Some mysterious presence seemed to oppress her. She fumbled with nerveless fingers at the buttons of her waist.

"Oh, what folly!" she cried to herself. "What is the matter with me?"

Resolutely she set to work and drew from her beautiful shoulders and gleaming rounded arms the silken waist that covered them. She turned to get the shawl, and the waist fell to the floor as she recoiled, with a shriek of terror, from an apparition that arose slowly from the depths of the big armchair.

Where there had been no human being an instant before Olga saw a tall, strange looking man. He was in conventional afternoon attire, save that his waistcoat was red, in sharp contrast to the somber black of his frock coat. His hair was black. His upward pointing eyebrows were black, and his eyes shone like dull burning lumps of coal. His face was like a mask, matching his immaculate linen in whiteness. It was cynical in its expression and almost sinister as he bowed low, with his hands folded over his breast, and said in a low, musical voice:

"Pardon me, madame; I think you dropped something."

He stooped and picked up the silken waist which had fallen from Olga's hands. As he held it out to her she drew back in horror.

CHAPTER VI.

OLGA shrank from this strange being, sensible of his serpent-like fascination, even while he repelled her. It flashed across her consciousness that he was something more than human, something worse—the embodiment of malevolent purpose—a man devoid of good—the devil himself.

He came from behind the chair, and as he moved toward her his every action heightened the impression she had received. In a situation where any man might have been confused he was perfectly self possessed. His attitude was neither offensive nor ingratiating. He became at once a part of her surroundings, of her thoughts—yes, of her soul. It was this influence that she felt herself combating with growing weakness.

"I hope you will forgive me," his smooth, suave voice went on, breaking the stillness almost melodiously, and he bowed again. "I permitted myself to fall asleep."

Still Olga could not find tongue, and she drew yet farther away. The man, or the devil, watched her as she groped for the shawl, found it and quickly wound its filmy length around her beautiful shoulders and arms. An expression of cynical amusement crossed his face.

"Excuse me, but I awoke just as you were about to unbutton your blouse," he said. "Propriety should have made me close my eyes, but—"

"Oh!" Olga cried, shocked into speech.

"Oh, I know, madame," he said, with a deprecating gesture and another profound bow. "You think I am suspicious, and you only came here—"

"To have my portrait painted," Olga said quickly.

"Precisely," he acquiesced, with the same cynical expression. "Only yesterday I met a lady at the dentist's, and I observed that she permitted him to extract a perfectly good and very pretty tooth."

"But I—" Olga began, accepting the defensive position into which he placed her when he interrupted her.

"Yes, you, I know, speak the truth."

I am even at liberty to believe you, but I cannot."

For an instant Olga recovered herself possession, and her indignation sprang into a flame that she should be addressed in this manner by a man whom she had never seen before—an intruder.

"I don't know why I permit a stranger to talk to me in this fashion," she exclaimed. "It amazes me."

The man stepped toward her. Terrified, she turned and fled toward the door of the studio.

"Karl! Karl!" she called.

The stranger smiled as the doors were flung open and Karl burst into the room. The young artist paused, astonished at the presence of the stranger. He was more amazed when the man cried out in the voice of genial comradeship:

"Hello, Karl! How do you do?"

"Why, how do you do?" Karl faltered, looking blankly from Olga to the mysterious visitor. "I don't—"

"You don't remember me," the other said. "Don't you recall me at Monte Carlo?"

"Oh, yes, at Monte Carlo," Karl said, with dawning recollection.

"It was an eventful day," the stranger said.

"Yes, yes, of course I remember. It was last fall, when I had lost all my money playing roulette. It was one stood behind me, and it was one I was afraid when I turned and saw you, because I fancied I had seen you a moment before beside the croupier grinning at me as my gold pieces were swept away. But when I had lost everything you offered me a handful of gold."

"Which you refused, but I saw the longing to accept in your eyes."

"I did not know you."

"But I offered it again and you accepted."

"Yes, and in ten minutes I had recouped my losses and won $20,000 besides," Karl cried, with growing enthusiasm. "I remember indeed. Your money seemed to possess mystic luck. When you put it in my hands it glowed, and I thought it was hot. It seemed to burn me."

"You were excited, my boy," said the other genially. "But you repaid me and invited me to dine. I could not accept because I was forced to leave for Spain that same evening. I promised, however, to call on you when you needed me, and here I am."

He bowed to Karl and Olga, who stood in speechless astonishment at this strange dialogue. She could understand nothing of this uncanny stranger, this specter in black and white, who seemed to emit a lurid radiance, as if his red waistcoat were alive.

"It was kind of you to come," Karl said. "I am glad."

"You were not here when I entered," the visitor said, "and I took a seat in that comfortable armchair. The warmth of the character of his guest. "Oh, you may rest assured my social position is beyond question," the stranger said, as if divining his thought.

Karl did not heed the irony of his speech, but presented him to Olga, who distantly acknowledged his bow. As Karl appeared to succumb to this strange influence she felt herself growing indignant. Millar seemed bent on provoking an outburst, and his astonishing remarks in another would have seemed vulgar insolence, but in him they possessed a singular meaning that made both Karl and Olga shiver.

"Under different circumstances I should now take my hat and say goodbye," Millar said after the introduction. "But my infinite tact compels me to force my presence upon you in this most unpleasant situation."

The innuendo stung Olga, and she turned to the artist.

"Karl, I can hardly believe it," she exclaimed indignantly. "Think of it—this man dared to—"

"How long has your husband been dead?" Millar interrupted, with exasperating coolness.

"I am not a widow," Olga said, surprised that she should reply.

"Oh, you are divorced?"

"I am not."

"Then if you feel that I have affronted you I should think your husband would be the proper man to appeal to," he said, with the utmost coolness.

He seemed like a trainer prodding tame animals with sharp prongs out of the lethargy of their caged lives to stir them to viciousness. Turning to Karl, he went on:

"However, if you wish it I am also at your disposal. But do you not see, madame, that it would be an admission on your part?"

He spoke as one who had read every secret thought of each. Bewildered, Karl cried out:

"What does all this talk mean? I don't understand anything. You come in here unannounced; I don't know how nor from where. You make us feel quite uncomfortable, just as if you had trapped us in some compromising situation."

"Yes, yes, that is it," Olga cried, relieved at Karl's outburst.

The stranger looked at him amusedly.

"You may be as impolite to me as you wish; I cannot go," he said.

"Why?" Olga demanded.

"My departure now would mean that I leave you because I have interrupted you. On the other hand, by remaining I prove that I suspect nothing."

"There is nothing to suspect," Karl declared angrily. "I do not want you here."

"Then that is settled. Let us talk of something else," the visitor remarked with the most casual inattention to Karl's rage. "The weather— isn't it snowing beautifully? Go—are you preparing anything for the spring exhibition at the Royal academy?"

"Perhaps I may send something," Karl answered sullenly.

Olga's bewilderment gave place to panic. In her mind was formed the purpose of snatching up her waist and rushing from the room. Before she could do it the stranger was there, holding the waist out and bowing profoundly.

"Permit me, madame," he said.

With a cry of astonishment Olga snatched at the garment.

"Who are you? Where do you come from?" she cried.

With his restless, vibrant hands in the air the stranger said:

"I come from nowhere; I go everywhere; I am here."

He touched his forehead with his long white fingers, and his black eyes were fixed upon her. Clutching the silken garment she had worn, Olga rushed into the studio. Millar, man or devil, looked after her and chuckled.

NEW AUDITORIUM OF HIGH SCHOOL WILL BE READY

Will Open For First Number of Lecture Course—Modern in Every Appointment.

With the addition of the new $400 asbestos drop curtain and two complete scenery "sets," which will arrive soon, the new auditorium of the High school building will be ready to receive the public for the first number on the season lecture course—the Germaine Entertainment company—Oct. 21. As soon as completed the new hall will be one of the best, from every standpoint, that Newark has ever had.

It is modern in its every appointment. The acoustic properties are excellent and this feature was given special attention in its construction. Heating by steam and lighting by electricity, comfortable opera chairs, so installed as to give every comfort to the people in the audience room, go to make up a most satisfactory hall for general entertainment purposes.

The seating capacity of the hall is 1015. Of this number 600 are on the first floor. The balcony seats are so arranged that they are equally as desirable as those below. The seven separate exits provide the utmost safety, while a complete fire control system will be installed, with fire escapes leading from every floor.

It is possible to enter either the main floor or the balcony from the main entrance of the annex, or on the west side, while the stage entrance is located on the north side of the new addition.

The stage floor is 36 feet in length and 16 feet deep. On either side of the stage is located two spacious dressing rooms, one above the other, and above these, on each side, is the "fly gallery" and scenic store room. Two rows of border lights, with strong reflectors, have been installed as well as complete side lights and "foots." The entire lighting system is operated from a large switch board on the left of the stage.

In all, the appointments of the auditorium are so complete that it will undoubtedly be the best audience room of its kind in the city when finished.

The other portions of the new addition to the High school building are progressing equally well. There are at present three of the rooms in the addition in use and the remainder will be ready in a comparatively short time. Several hundred dollars' worth of new scientific apparatus and appliances have been purchased for the physical and chemical laboratories. These departments are already equipped with many experiment tables, each accommodating several students. In the biological department there are twenty tables, specially designed by Principal T. Otto Williams and manufactured at his direction by the Cleveland Desk company. They are so designed that each accommodates six students at once. The tops are treated in such a manner as to make them acid proof, yet presenting a neat appearance.

Each room of the entire building has been equipped with a 40-station, automatic telephone, by means of which a person in one room can communicate directly with another room without the aid of a central station and operator. These telephones were installed by Wingate & Brooks, of Cleveland.

The basement of the annex will be devoted exclusively to the manual training department as soon as it can be equipped and put into operation. A monster 35 h. p. engine has been set in position to furnish power for this work. One large compartment will be known as the lathe room and the other will be devoted to bench work.

The entire building has been wired for the installation of automatic electric clocks. The master clock will be located in one of the two beautiful rooms making up the private suite of the principal. This will gauge the other, or secondary, clocks. This system, installed by the Newark Electric company, provides for the automatic winding and setting of the clocks every 60 seconds. There will be twelve secondary clocks of the ordinary size and one large one in the auditorium.

When the new structure is fully completed, the science department will occupy the entire third floor. Besides, there will be five class rooms in the new part.

While it is believed that the present addition to the old building will make accommodations for many more students and for the new departments—as well as more room for the scientific laboratories, the rapid increase in the annual High school enrollment promises to soon make use of every bit of space afforded. Last year's enrollment during the first week was $50. This year, on the fifth day of school, the enrollment reached 543, an increase of 63 students, or enough to occupy one room alone.

The present corps of instructors numbers 17 of the regular teachers and two special instructors for music and art.

The rapid growth of the Newark High school not only speaks well for its corps of instructors and its directorship, but means that it will be many years before different parts of the city will have to have their own High school buildings.

AMUSEMENTS

THE PRESS AGENT SAYS:

The dramatization of the famous novel, "Thorns and Orange Blossoms," has lost none of its interest in stage form. The characters are well represented, and in point of scene and effects the stage pictures leave nothing to be wished for. In "Thorns and Orange Blossoms," patrons of the theatre will long remember the production. There is an abundance of heart interest, and there is a marked absence of lurid melodramatic features. It is well staged and well acted by a special Rowland & Clifford company, with Miss Lucile Gardner in the leading part.

THORNS AND ORANGE BLOSSOMS

"Thorns and Orange Blossoms" comes to the Auditorium theatre October 10th matinee and night.

AUDITORIUM THEATRE.

The motion pictures at the Auditorium theatre last night were fine, as were the illustrated songs. R. Brown, in his funny old mammy makeup, singing his funny baby songs, delights his audience and receives great applause. Tonight will be the last of the picture show for this week as Saturday afternoon and evening "Thorns and Orange Blossoms" will hold the boards. The management wishes to make the announcement that every night that none of the big shows are on, there will be motion pictures, illustrated songs and vaudeville.

THE ORPHIUM.

Everything that mortal man needs has gone up in price—everything but the price of the Orphium theatre tickets (and you will always find them the same) and so, as tickets are not a luxury, but an obtainable necessity, you should not fail to secure same. Glance over this bill and see if it can be beat.

The equilibrists and balancing team—the Aherns—are extraordinarily clever in their work, doing many very difficult feats in an easy manner, apparently without the least effort. Sedition is so good an act seen in the smaller houses.

Lizzie B. Raymond, the singing comedienne, entertained the audience for fifteen minutes with her songs and impersonations, winning herself right into the hearts of the audience with her jolly face.

The Edwards were the next to keep things moving, and they fulfilled that requirement. They have an act that is full of good singing and bright comedy.

The Sharrocks' novelty sketch is about the best act seen here this season. The comedy in the act comes so fast that it is impossible to keep from laughing.

Don't forget that tonight is "The night of two extra attractions, both entertaining, making a vaudeville show of seven acts and all for the small price. So order your tickets early by 'phone and avoid the jam at the door. The extra attractions for tonight are the Rosset Quartette and Fred Jones in a black-face song-and-dance.

DEMATERIALIZED SPIRITS.

At the Auditorium Sunday Night, Oct. 11.

Every once in a while the thinking world is brought face to face with a fact which has caused the wisest of men to question the accuracy of human knowledge. The phenomenon, in the present instance, is Dr. Sawyer, the famous spirit medium, who has been startling the eastern people and creating such a furore at the Academy of Music, Philadelphia, filling that famous building every Sunday night for the past three months. The test which has caused the greatest amount of controversy is called De Materialization. While the medium is surrounded by a committee, spirit figures appear on the stage. Disappearing, they immediately appear among the audience in plain, open light.

Other experiments are slate writing, clairvoyant tests, floating tables and chairs; materialization of forms and faces. Dr. Sawyer will appear at the Auditorium Sunday night, Oct. 11.

"A STUBBORN CINDERELLA."

A number of Newark people witnessed the closing engagement of Hough & Adams' sprightly musical comedy, "A Stubborn Cinderella," at the Southern theatre, Columbus, Wednesday night. And musical comedy does not appropriately characterize the production. Spectacular musical comedy or light opera would be closer. Elaborately staged, presented with a fine, big cast, featuring Homer B. Mason, supported by a large and good looking, wide awake chorus, of men and women and women who sing, was the basis of the show. The descriptive ballet, "The Orange Fete," introducing Miss Grace Edmond in the song "When You First Kiss the Last Girl You Love," was a dazzling bit of scenic grandeur. The big musical hit of the piece, however, was "If They'd Only Let Poor Adam's Rib Alone."

SYSTEMATIC.

The plan adopted for the sale of season tickets for the Newark High school lecture course is certainly a systematic one, doing away with the usual annoyance to the public of having 40 or 50 pupils canvass the same individual. The city has been divided into wards, the same as for voting purposes, and these wards into districts similar to the voting precincts. The pupils will confine their sale to the districts or precincts in which they live. This is certainly a most commendable plan, for which the public should show appreciation by giving the boys and girls a quick response.

The High school is to be congratulated on having been able to book so strong a course the first year, and it should meet with the hearty support of the public.

The season ticket to the public is $1.50 including reserved seat and to the pupils and teachers of the Newark schools, $1.25, including the same reserved seat privilege. Announcement of reserved seats will be made later.

ADVANCE STYLES IN FALL SUITS AND OVERCOATS

Exhibition of Approved Models Chosen from a Bewildering Array of Advance Styles in Men's Clothes—Young Men's Fashions a Study in Odd and Novel Styles—An Extremely Wide Range of Selections Confined Within the Limits of Good Taste.

WE are prepared now to show our Fall styles, in using the term this season we mean a great many styles, because fashion has decreed that a man, and particularly a young one, may wear such oddities as his fancy may dictate. We have brought the best efforts of our organization to bear in selecting such a line for Fall as will merit the approval of our customers and still give the widest range of selection. It is quite out of the question to describe all our styles, but we will be delighted to show them to you in person.

BOYS' ELECTION

The boys are taking great interest in the movement which has for its object the more intelligent use of that great lever of power, the American ballot.

It is becoming more essential every day that the American citizen take a deeper interest in politics and the Y. M. C. A. proposes to rouse that interest in the youth and school him in the discharge of his imperative duty of practical politics, so that he may better discharge his imperative duty of citizenship.

It behooves every boy of Newark to take advantage of this great opportunity and also line up his neighbor for Bryan or Taft.

The committee having this work in charge is preparing to hold two large partisan mass meetings in the near future to discuss the political issues and stir up enthusiasm in the respective parties. Get busy, boys, and electorize your friends for your candidate.

Saturday, Oct. 24, has been set aside as registration day, and Tuesday, Oct. 27, as election day. Every boy who wants to vote must register.

HOW TO CURE SKIN DISEASES.
The germs that cause skin diseases must be drawn to the surface of the skin and destroyed.

ZEMO, a clean liquid for external use, will do this and will permanently cure every form of itching skin disease.

A WOMAN WILL NEVER CHANGE.

With a towel on her head and a broom in her hand, each woman is bustling throughout this broad land; the peace of our homes once more is disturbed, for the fad of housecleaning will never be curbed. However, these trials do not last quite so long, the reason's been told both in story and song; for whenever a woman has used Spartan tain, it is never so hard to clean woodwork again. Spartan Stain is the highest grade varnish stain sold today. It produces a beautiful gloss finish, and can be applied by anyone. Manufactured by the Marietta Paint and Color Co., Marietta, Ohio. Sold by the Newark Paint Co., 31 West Church street.
